School Council

to our monthly newsletter

The school council has already met to discuss our shared school rules. Children have had the opportunity to discuss, in class, how we should behave in school in order to enable everyone to achieve their best. The final version, as decided by the students, will be published and shared.

The first month has gone very quickly and the children have settled into school routines calmly and enthusiastically. Our children are already producing some fantastic work, participating in House sports and singing in the Choir at lunch times. It has been a very busy month and the rest of the term will also be filled with educational events, activities and visits.

Year 7

Our first year 7 class has taken on the responsibility of being the role models in school and are doing an extremely good job. They recently took part in a team building activity at "Adventure rooms" and I am pleased to say that all of the class were successful in escaping the rooms.

Year 7 Science Models

These very impressive Cell models were produced by Year 7 as a homework project, it is clear that these students are taking their secondary studies very seriously.

This year we are raising the profile of our House System to enable children to have more opportunities for leadership and for participation in competition. There will be house competitions in sports, maths, Spelling Bee's, Chess, Choir, drama and general knowledge quiz's which will give the opportunity, for all children, to participate and compete.

Moms and baby Music group

Information has been sent today about our Music group for moms and babies. This will be held in school and will include music and musical activities for babies and mothers, as well as games and a chance for mothers to meet, chat and their children to play with others. Coffee and tea will be available.

For more information please speak to Ms. Verlato. others.

These children in Leopard Class have been working hard at using cursive handwriting and spelling accurately. Due to their hard work and determination they have achieved the standard needed to write in pen. They were awarded with a certificate and a pen.

Notice Board

You can park on all four sides of the school and three gates are open for you to enter. Do not block the main entrance it is dangerous for those children crossing the road. Park your car and walk into school.

Punctuality – it is important for all children to arrive in school on time. Registration is at 7:00am. Teaching starts at 7:10am prompt.

it is important for all children to have snack and lunch with them at school. Fruit for first break is compulsory. At lunch time children, even if they are having a large lunch when they get home, need something to eat. Many children are not eating breakfast so it is even more important they have food for break time.

Will take place this term on the following dates, I am aware that some parents are unable to make these times so there will be a later time for these parents. Please let Marie, in reception, know in the office which workshop/presentations you would like repeated at 5/6 pm.
